Appendix C - JIRA Issue Tracker

The software company Atlassian granted to the Flux Capacitor project an Open Source License for their JIRA tracking system. Please feel free to employ this system to report any issue (e.g., bugs, requests for enhancement, etc.) concerning the Flux Simulator. In order to create issues or to monitor the development progress on any existing issue, you need to create an account that at the same time also allows to post and comment on discussions in this wiki. Before reporting new issues, browse the list below or search JIRA for the existence of identical or closely related topics. Refer to the Wiki Markup syntax for formatting options.
