Oversequencing the final library

Is sequencing all fragments from the final library also oversampling the population of initially simulated RNA molecules?