

Is it possible to force the simulation to produce reads with the exact same length?

Hi,

I am interested in comparing different read length within a simulation experiment (e.g. alignment rate with 50 bp or 80 bp reads).

That's why my question is: Is it possible to force the simulation to produce reads with the exact same length?

Thanks in advance!

Best regards,

Franziska